1 ABSENCE FROM WORK

1.1 National Holidays

Our respect for work-life balance and local customs extends to a strict adherence to the national holidays recognized by the Greek calendar. As such, no work is permitted on these days, regardless of the holiday calendar followed by customers or partners. This rule applies to all work activities, including visits to partner premises, and any exception to this rule requires prior approval as mentioned above.

1.2 Time-off Policy

1.2.1 Annual holiday

Employees who work 5 days per week are entitled to 20 days of paid time off in total for their first year of work and 21 days once they complete 12 full months of work at the same employer. During the first year, their balance is proportional and calculated based on their hiring date.

From the start of their second year of work at the same employer, their balance goes up again by 1 day, i.e. they get 22 days of paid holiday.

When an employee completes 10 years of work at the same employer, or 12 years of work in total at any employer, then the annual holiday balance is 25 days.

Unused time off can be transferred to the following year; however, it must be consumed until March 31st.

More information on the time off balance can be found on https://www.kepea.gr

1.2.2 Sick leave

For the company to be compliant with the Greek labour law and avoid any issues in the event of an inspection, there is a specific procedure to be followed to submit a sick leave request.

Please read the pdf file with detailed instructions on what to do when you are sick and are about to miss work - this will be in addition to making your request in BambooHR.

Essentially, everyone must make a submission to e-EFKA and attach a doctor's note. For 1-3 days of absence, companies pay their employees 50% of their daily salary, from the 4th day of absence onwards, companies pay the difference between the daily salary and the subsidy received from IKA.

Failure to make the submission on e-EFKA, will result in the deduction of day(s) from your annual vacation balance.

If you need more clarifications, it is best if you contact your personal accountants as they will be able to guide you in more detail. Furthermore, additional information can be found at https://www.efka.gov.gr/el/menoy/sychnes-eroteseis/paroches-se-chrema/epidoma-astheneias/epidoma-astheneias-misthoton and https://www.kepea.gr/aarticle.php?id=68

Please make sure to follow these instructions, as all sick leave requests will be sent to our accountant every month and will be officially submitted to ΕΡΓΑΝΗ.

As per our internal regulation, employees are also entitled to 2 days of sick leave per year without providing a doctor's note and declaring them on e-EFKA. To make use of these days (either consecutively or separately) they must request the "Extra Days Off" leave type and add a comment stating that the reason is sick leave.

1.2.3 Unpaid leave

Employees can request unpaid time off, on the condition that they have previously consumed the entirety of their annual holiday balance. We suggest not requesting more than 5 days of unpaid time off, to be in accordance with all the Group's offices.

To make such a request, an employee declaration via https://www.gov.gr needs to be issued, stating that all paid time off has already been consumed and that unpaid time off is requested from date X to date Y. The employer also issues a similar declaration, acknowledging the same thing. Our accounting office then prepares the necessary paperwork that needs to be signed and stamped by the company.

All these files are submitted to the respective authorities (ΕΡΓΑΝΗ and e-EFKA).

1.2.4 Compassionate leave

As per the law, employees are entitled to 2 days of compassionate leave in the event of death of spouse, children, parents and siblings (first degree relatives).

According to our company's internal regulation, compassionate leave can be extended to second degree relatives, e.g. grandparents and cousins.

1.2.5 Student leave

Employees who join the company without having yet completed their Bachelor's degree, are normally expected to obtain it within the first 6 months from the start date of their employment. A maximum timeframe of 1 year is provided, to allow for flexibility in cases where exams are postponed or unforeseen circumstances arise.

To support the completion of remaining university obligations, we provide our employees with complimentary student leave during their first year of employment, specifically for attending university examinations. This is divided as follows:

- For the first 6 months of employment, employees can request up to 5 days off
- For the remaining 6 months (until the first year of employment is completed): up to 2 additional days off

These days off are not deducted from the annual holiday balance and can be requested via BambooHR under Extra Days Off. A comment is required, with the reason for the absence and exam date(s). Employees are also required to provide HR with a certification of attendance from the academic institution.

If the Bachelor's degree is not obtained within the first year of employment, any additional time off required for exams, should be requested either as vacation leave or unpaid student leave, in line with the Greek labour law. Unpaid student leave also applies for employees who are pursuing a Master's degree.

As per the Greek legislation, undergraduate students are entitled to up to 30 days of unpaid exam leave and postgraduate students are entitled to up to 10 days of unpaid exam leave. Unpaid student leave can be requested under Unpaid Leave via BambooHR. Again, a comment is required, with the reason for the absence and exam date(s), and a certification of attendance must be sent to HR.

Please note that unpaid student leave applies only to students at public universities in Greece. More information is available at https://www.kepea.gr/foititiki-adeia-exetaseon#

1.2.6 Maternity & paternity leave

Maternity leave amounts to 17 weeks, from which the first 8 are taken before labour and the remaining 9 after it. Abiding to these timelines is mandatory. In the event of premature labour, the remaining leave is given after the birth so that the total number of weeks reaches 17.

For surrogate pregnancies and adoptions of children up to 8 years of age, the employee is entitled to the 9 weeks of post-labour maternity leave.

Employees are also entitled to additional types of maternity leave which are not mandatory but can be requested should they wish to use them. More information on these can be found on https://www.hli.gov.gr/ergasiakes-scheseis/nomothesia-ergasiakes-scheseis/adeies-ergasiakes-scheseis/adeies-gia-tin-prostasia-tis-oikogeneias/

Working fathers can request paid paternity leave of 14 working days. This is a mandatory leave and can be consumed either in its entirety right after the child's birth or divided; the first 2 days are taken before the expected delivery date and the remaining 12 days are taken either consecutively or dispersed within the first 30 days from the child's birth.

1.2.7 Elections & voting leave

Employees can request additional paid leave to vote in elections. In the event elections fall within an employee's holiday leave, then the holiday leave pauses so that the voting leave can be consumed and resumes right after.

The number of days of leave is determined by the distance and more specifically:

- For destinations from 200 to 400 km away, the employee is entitled to 1 working day
- For destinations from 401 km away and up, the employee is entitled to 2 working days
- For island destinations, the employee is entitled to 3 working days

Employees must provide proof of voting upon their return. This can be obtained by their election centre/place of voting.

1.2.8 Blood donation and women's health check-up

Employees are entitled to 2 days of annual paid leave to donate blood and must provide proof of attendance. The leave can only be taken on the day of the blood donation. At Intragen Greece, we have our own company "blood bank" and organise voluntary donations twice a year, usually between November and December and between May and June.

Female employees are entitled to 1 day of paid leave per year to have any type of gynaecological check-up, e.g. PAP smear, pelvic exam, mammogram, etc. They need to provide a doctor's note upon their return to work.

1.2.9 How to request time-off?

Time off requests must be done only through BambooHR – requests made via email or other means will not be accepted.

Steps to follow can be found below:

- Access your BambooHR account (https://intragen.bamboohr.com/home/) and click on My Info tab to access your personal information.
- Click on the Time Off tab. There, you will see the available types of time off (e.g. holiday, sick leave).
- Under Holiday you will be able to see the number of days off you are entitled per year (according to Greek legislation based on your hire date). This amount will automatically be adjusted as you make use of your time off days.
- To request any type of time off you will need to do so from the Home tab and the Request Time Off button. This will prompt you to fill in a form with the From and To dates and the type of time off you want to request. Select from the drop-down the appropriate type of leave, leave a note to your Team Leader if needed, and click Send Request.
- The request will be submitted to your Team Leader. You will be notified via email once they approve or deny your request.

Everyone can see if any colleagues have time off by clicking on the Full Calendar tab which displays who is out and for which reason.

You need to submit a time off request any time you will not be working. This means you also must request sick leave, business trip leave, training, etc. Please add in the notes section the reason for the request and/or the days you will be absent.

Before taking any time off you need to discuss with your clients and make sure that they are ok with your absence. A time off request means that your Team Leader and team members have also been informed accordingly, and you will do the appropriate handover before you go.

You can transfer time off to the following year and it is recommended not to exceed 5 days of holiday leave, but the transferred time off must be consumed in its entirety by March 31st. Exceptions can be made on a case-by-case basis, and only for work reasons.

You need to make sure Support is always handled during working days/hours so keep this in mind when requesting time off.

2 SALARY

Salaries are deposited on the 27th of each month through Piraeus Bank. If you have an account with a different bank, you must open a new one at Piraeus Bank.

3 DINING CARD

In addition to the monthly salary, employees receive a prepaid Go For Eat card from UP Hellas, which is topped up with €100 monthly and can be used for dining and shopping expenses.

While we aim for timely reloading, occasional delays may occur due to factors beyond our control. If you experience any delay, please allow a couple of days before reaching out for assistance.

We are committed to ensuring that both your salary and additional benefits are processed accurately and on time.

4 OVERTIME POLICY

We are committed to fostering a work environment that promotes fair and balanced practices. A key aspect of this commitment is the management of overtime work across our diverse range of activities, including our Identity and Access Management (IAM), Privileged Access Management (PAM), and IT Service Management (ITSM) services.

Our policy aims to establish clear procedures and guidelines that ensure all employees understand the expectations surrounding overtime work. We also strive to guarantee that those who undertake overtime are duly compensated, reinforcing the principle that we value our employees' hard work and dedication. This policy is aligned with, and respects the Greek labour laws, reinforcing our commitment to legal and ethical employment practices.

This policy is designed to encompass all employees within Intragen Greece, irrespective of their roles or responsibilities. By ensuring the policy applies universally, we aim to promote fairness and consistency across all sectors of operations.

To provide absolute clarity, we define certain terms explicitly:

Overtime refers to any time worked that exceeds the standard working hours as determined by both Intragen's guidelines and Greek labour law. This includes additional work outside of regular business hours, weekends, or public holidays.

Go-Live is a term used to describe the period when a system or project transitions from the development or preparation stage to being fully operational and accessible. It represents a critical juncture in any project that often requires additional work, thus having relevance to overtime considerations.

Understanding the correct procedures for requesting and gaining approval for overtime work is crucial:

- Prior Approval: We emphasize that all overtime work, including that which may occur on bank holidays and weekends, necessitates prior approval. This condition also applies during Go-Live periods, where additional work is often required.

- Request Procedure: To request overtime for work, employees should send an email to our Country Lead, Georgina Tekirdagli, at georgina.tekirdagli@intragen.com with HR and their Team Leader always copied in. To facilitate efficient planning, we prefer that these requests are made one week in advance, whenever possible. To request overtime for business travel during the weekends, employees should send an email to Bart Kollau at bart.kollau@intragen.com prior to making any booking arrangements, copying HR in.
- Approval Confirmation: Employees must wait for and receive explicit approval before commencing overtime work. Any work done without formal approval cannot be considered overtime under this policy. The same goes for booking tickets for business travel; without approval, no arrangements can be made.

- Frequency of Request: It is necessary to submit a new request for each instance of overtime, as each occasion needs individual approval. Exceptions can be made for go-live periods, where a single request can cover the entire go-live duration. However, please note that provisions for permanent or extended overtime allowances do not exist.

4.1 Overtime Compensation

We believe in rewarding hard work and dedication, especially when it involves additional time commitments from our team members:

- Standard Overtime Rate: For every hour of approved overtime worked, employees will receive 50% of their gross hourly rate. This rate acknowledges the additional effort and commitment required to work outside regular hours.
- Weekend and Bank Holidays Rate: We recognize that weekends and bank holidays are traditionally times for rest and relaxation. Therefore, any approved work conducted on these days will be compensated at 100% of their gross hourly rate. The same compensation applies for business travel during the weekends.
- Work for Jumbo stand-by: Solely for Jumbo, when a Greek public holiday does not fall on the same day of a Dutch public holiday, then employees will be paid the weekend and bank holidays rate for a full shift of 8 hours.

On the last working day of each month, employees email hrgreece@intragen.com, stating the days and total number of hours worked (for e.g. 3 hours on standard weekday, 5 hours on weekend/public holiday). Failure to do so will result in not getting paid for the overtime. All overtime compensation will be paid quarterly, in addition to the following month's salary (for e.g. overtime done from January until March will be compensated with April's salary).

4.2 Travel Compensation

Recognizing the nature of our business often requires travel, we have set guidelines to handle compensation in such cases:

- During Working Hours: Any travel that occurs within standard working hours is considered part of the regular job responsibilities and will be compensated as normal working hours. Such travel time is billed to the associated customer.

- During Non-Working Hours: Travel conducted during weekends or public holidays falls under the category of weekend and bank holidays overtime work and is thus eligible for the appropriate compensation. Such travel time is billed to the customer (after prior agreement with Management).

4.3 Informal Overtime

Sometimes, the demands of a project may necessitate a small amount of additional work beyond regular hours.

If this happens infrequently and requires about an additional hour or so, this will not be officially recognised as overtime. In such cases, employees may take the equivalent amount of time off at an appropriate time, provided they have informed the customer and their Team Leader in advance.

It is important to note that this arrangement should be an exception, not a rule, and should not become a regular occurrence.

4.4 Overtime Recording and Monitoring

Accurate record-keeping is an essential component of overtime management. All approved overtime work must be accurately recorded in BambooHR. This ensures transparency and facilitates correct compensation.

4.5 Non-Compliance

To maintain fairness and comply with our company policy and Greek labour law, we have clear guidelines for instances of non-compliance.

Working overtime without prior approval will not be recognised as overtime and will therefore not be eligible for overtime compensation. This policy exists to ensure that all employees are fairly compensated for their time and to prevent potential miscommunication or misunderstandings.

5 TIME TRACKING

All employees are required to log their working hours in BambooHR every Friday of each week and include short comments summarizing their daily activities at a high level. Ideally, timesheets should be updated at the end of each day to better keep track of daily work.

5.1 Where to log time

You can find the Timesheet tab on your employee profile, and each day you will have to log the time on the project you worked for.

Each employee is assigned their respective projects, plus some extra work categories that apply to all, and can select the time and content of work. When joining a new project or need to add a team member to a project, please email HR or Georgina Tekirdagli with the name of the project you are requesting access to.

Similarly, if a new project is created and is not yet added on Bamboo, email HR or Georgina to add it in Bamboo and give access to whoever needs it.

Besides the client projects, you will also see some other general options like internal company meetings, trainings, etc. These categories are applicable to all employees and can be used to log time whenever necessary.

5.2 Approval of time logged

At the end of each month, all timesheets will be sent to Georgina for approval, so make sure to check yours beforehand, to ensure it is up to date.

5.3 Important information and guidelines

The hours of work you report to the client project(s) every day should always match the hours you log in BambooHR. This means that if for e.g. you log 8 hours on the client side on a given day, then the same number of hours should be logged in BambooHR. Even if during that day you spent 1 hour on a one-to-one meeting or 30 minutes in the weekly call, if you stated to the client you worked for 8 hours then you log 8 hours on that client/project on BambooHR as well.

People working and billing multiple projects need to make sure that all hours that are billed to the client(s) are logged in BambooHR, even if their total number exceeds 8 – this does not count as overtime if you worked your normal 8-hour daily shift. For e.g. employee A logs 8 hours for client X (i.e. client X is billed for 8 hours) on a given day, but also 2 hours on client Y (i.e. client Y is billed for 2 hours) on that same day. If, on that day, his/her total work did not exceed his 8-hour daily shift then, it doesn't matter if BambooHR shows 10 hours of work (8 hours on client X and 2 hours on client Y) for the employee that day. Overtime work (i.e. outside the standard 8 hours per day) needs to be approved by Ciro first and is reported separately via email to HR at the end of each month.

If you explicitly inform the client(s) that on a given day you will work less hours and they agree to this, meaning you will log less hours on their side, then you will need to log in BambooHR what you did in the remaining hours to fulfil your 8-hour workday. For example, if you log 6 hours on the client side then you log 6 hours on BambooHR on that client/project and you also log the remaining 2 hours choosing one or more of the general categories so that we can see what you did during your shift that day.

You need to log 8 hours of work per day on BambooHR as per your contract, unless you specifically advise otherwise, e.g. in cases of sickness, when you request sick leave, on holidays, etc.

If you log work on non-billable projects (e.g., OI training), then you must always add a note describing what you are doing.

If you work overtime, then log the additional hours worked under the project Overtime in BambooHR and add a comment specifying the project name at the beginning (e.g. Jumbo Go Live).

For some projects, even if there is not enough work, you should still log all the hours. However, you should inform Georgina accordingly so that she is aware and takes proper action.

If you need any clarification, please contact HR or Georgina and we will be happy to explain the procedure in even more detail.

6 PROBATION PERIOD

As per our company contract, there is a 3-month probation period, before the end of which it is decided whether a new hire will continue working with us or not. The final decision is sent in writing to the employee.

7 COMPANY DOCTOR

As required by law for businesses with more than 50 employees, a company doctor visits our office once a month.

The company doctor focuses on workplace health and safety, offering medical consultations and answering any health-related questions. However, please note that they are not authorised to issue prescriptions.

Attendance at the company doctor's appointment is mandatory. Each employee will be scheduled for a consultation at least once a year, and they will be informed in advance. If there is a serious reason preventing employees from attending, then HR must be notified.

8 EMPLOYEE EXPENSES

We reimburse the cost of your monthly transportation card, Udemy courses, or any other certifications that have been approved by Management. To be reimbursed, you need to submit your receipts through the Expensify app. Simply take a picture of the receipt and fill in the necessary details in the respective fields.

You need to submit your report before the end of each month. Reimbursement will be credited to your bank account in the following month.

When you submit your report, please deliver the physical receipts to the Office Manager, as they need to be filed in case of audit.

9 OFFICE RULES

Our office is meant to be a hub for collaboration, meetings, and fun. For it to stay that way, we all need to take care of the space. If you have any questions or notice something is missing, your contact person is the Office Manager.

We are all equally responsible for following certain rules while at the office. Please read the guidelines below carefully and make sure to follow them.

If you are the last to leave, make sure you turn off the A/C and lights.

Clean up your workspace before leaving. Leave the desk ready for someone else to use the next day.

If you temporarily borrow any peripherals (keyboard, headset, mouse) or pens, make sure to return them to where they belong before leaving.

Forgotten items will be placed in the “Lost and Found” space in the bookcase near the kitchen. If not claimed within 2 weeks, they will be thrown away.

The smoking area is outside, next to the building entrance, where appropriate bins are placed. No smoking is allowed inside the office – including vapes.

You can use the office lockers to store items during the day or for the next day. Please ensure to return the keys when the locker is not in use.

Use the meeting rooms only for meetings or important calls. Avoid using the space for daily tasks.

Anyone who has food delivered is responsible for retrieving their orders promptly, as there is not a designated reception desk.

If you need any additional office supplies, first check near the printer or the bookcase or in the supplies room. If you cannot find what you need, inform the Office Manager to place an order.

9.1 LUNCHROOM

Rinse and add your dishes and cups to the dishwasher before leaving. If the dishwasher is in use, you can leave them in the sink and the cleaning crew will add them to the next cycle (if the dishwasher is in use, a red light at the floor on its right corner will be on)

If you are going to recycle an item, make sure it is properly washed first.

Clear away any empty food containers in the appropriate bins – don’t leave them on the tables.

Leftover food/drinks in the fridge will be cleared out every Friday.

10 SUBMITTING YOUR WORK LOCATION

As we need to be compliant with the guidelines regarding remote and onsite work and avoid penalties in case of an inspection, it is of outmost importance to submit your work location accurately on the government employment platform (ΕΡΓΑΝΗ).

10.1 How does it work

- Every Monday, you will receive a link to fill out your working schedule for the following week.
- The form will stay open until Thursday at 12:00 p.m.
- Once you submit your schedule, you must follow it.
- If you don’t submit the form, you will automatically be considered remote for the whole week.
- If you are scheduled to work onsite but cannot do so, you must either take a day off or submit a sick leave request.
- It is not allowed to work at the office on a day you haven’t already scheduled.

If you are planning to take time off and will not be able to fill in the form on time, please inform HR in advance. If you already have approved days off, select leave from the work location options listed in the form.

Once submitted, the schedule must be followed. If something urgent comes up, you must:

- Send a change request for approval to Georgina Tekirdagli with HR in copy.
- Do this at least one day before, by 10:00 a.m. at the latest. After that deadline, no further changes can be submitted.

10 TRAINEE OFFICE ATTENDANCE

During the training period, it is vital to establish a strong relationship with the company. To facilitate this, trainees are required to be present at the office at least 4 out of 5 days of the week.

This helps you to get familiarised with our company culture, interact with colleagues, and build relationships with the Management team. Working at the office also accelerates your learning and growth by providing face-to-face interactions and immediate access to resources, minimizing time spent searching for answers online.

While remote work may be an option after the training period, regular office attendance remains important for continued integration and development within the company.

Trainees who have not completed the training but have joined customer projects, do not need to abide by the 4/5 attendance rule, however, as mentioned above, regular office presence should be maintained. We suggest working onsite 2 or 3 days per week.

We understand that flexibility is key, and there may be occasions when you have important reasons prohibiting you from being at the office. In such cases, you need to inform your mentor in advance. We value open communication and understanding of individual circumstances, while ensuring that our team remains connected and productive.

11 MEETINGS

11.1 Friday Weekly Call

Every Friday, the Greek team has its weekly company meeting, an integral part of our collaborative culture.

Attendance is mandatory for all team members unless they have other commitments with clients. During this meeting, we share updates on project progress, highlighting any cases that may be of interest to the wider team. Additionally, we use this time to discuss important office matters and ISO-related topics.

Your presence and active participation are essential as we exchange information, provide updates, and foster a sense of unity within our organisation. To maintain engagement, cameras are required to be open throughout the meeting.

During your first weekly call, you will be asked for a brief introduction of yourself. Please keep it short and to the point, to ensure everyone can share their updates.

We encourage you to share your insights, listen attentively to others, and contribute to our collective success.

11.2 Quarterly Meetings

Our quarterly meetings are pivotal events where we review our progress towards achieving the goals set for the year. During these meetings, we present a comprehensive summary of our successes thus far and provide updates on the progress made towards our objectives. Additionally, we discuss upcoming goals and initiatives, ensuring alignment and clarity across the organisation.

These meetings serve as a crucial platform for sharing important news, fostering transparency, and promoting collaboration. Attendance is highly encouraged as it demonstrates commitment to the company's vision and objectives. Moreover, these gatherings are often followed by a company dinner, offering an opportunity for further camaraderie and celebration of our collective achievements.

We look forward to your active participation and valuable contributions as we continue to strive for excellence together.

11.3 Deep Dives

At Intragen, we place great emphasis on continuous learning and knowledge sharing, which is why we host regular deep dive sessions. These sessions serve as a platform for in-depth exploration of various topics relevant to our work.

Whether it is discussing new technologies, sharing best practices, or delving into complex concepts, our deep dive sessions provide valuable opportunities for personal and professional growth.

One of the key features of these sessions is their interactive nature. We encourage active participation from all team members, regardless of their level of experience. While we understand that some topics may be more challenging for newcomers, we believe that everyone has something valuable to contribute to. These sessions are not only about gaining knowledge, but also about fostering a culture of collaboration and open dialogue.

To ensure accessibility and flexibility, all deep dive sessions are recorded and archived in our library for future reference. This allows team members to revisit past sessions and access valuable insights at their own pace.

We believe that we can collectively dive deeper into our understanding, ask questions, and engage in meaningful discussions that propel us forward in our journey of innovation and excellence.

12 EQUAL TREATMENT, ANTI-DISCRIMINATION, AND ETHICAL CONDUCT

Our company is committed to ensuring equal treatment and prohibiting discrimination based on gender, race, ethnic origin, religion, disability, age, sexual orientation, or any other protected characteristic. All employees must act with integrity, respect, and fairness in all professional interactions. Ethical conduct, transparency, and accountability are fundamental to our workplace culture. Discriminatory behaviour, harassment, or any form of unethical conduct will not be tolerated and may lead to disciplinary action in line with company policy and legal requirements.

If any employee wishes to report or file a complaint regarding discrimination, harassment, or unethical behaviour, they are encouraged to contact the HR department in confidence.

For more information, please refer to our internal regulation handbook which can be found at the office.
